11 JESUS LOPEZ,

12 Petitioner,

13 v.

14 S.R. MOORE, Warden,

15 Respondent.

Civil No. 08-0398 JM (BLM)

ORDER DISMISSING CASE WITHOUT PREJUDICE AND WITH LEAVE TO AMEND

16 Petitioner, a state prisoner proceeding pro se, has submitted a Petition for Writ of Habeas 17 Corpus pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254 and had paid the $5.00 filing fee.

18 VENUE

19 Upon review of the petition, it is not clear whether this Court has jurisdiction and whether 20 the United States District Court for the Southern District of California is the proper venue. A
21 petition for writ of habeas corpus may be filed in the United States District Court of either the 22 judicial district in which the petitioner is presently confined or the judicial district in which he
23 was convicted and sentenced. See 28 U.S.C. § 2241(d); Braden v. 30th Judicial Circuit Court,
24 410 U.S. 484, 497 (1973). Petitioner is presently confined at Deuel Vocational Institution,
25 located in San Joaquin County, which is within the jurisdictional boundaries of the United States
26 District Court for the Eastern District of California. See 28 U.S.C. § 84(b). Petitioner does not 27 state where he suffered the state court conviction which he seeks to challenge. Thus, jurisdiction exists in the Eastern District but it is not clear whether jurisdiction exists in the Southern District.

28 ///

FAILURE TO ALLEGE EXHAUSTION OF STATE JUDICIAL REMEDIES

Further, habeas petitioners who wish to challenge either their state court conviction or the length of their confinement in state prison, must first exhaust state judicial remedies. 28 U.S.C. § 2254(b), (c); Granberry v. Greer, 481 U.S. 129, 133-34 (1987). Ordinarily, to satisfy the exhaustion requirement, a petitioner must “fairly present[] his federal claim to the highest state court with jurisdiction to consider it . . . or . . . demonstrate[] that no state remedy remains available. Johnson v. Zenon, 88 F.3d 828, 829 (9th Cir. 1996) (citing Picard v. Connor, 404 U.S. 270, 275 (1971); Anderson v. Harless, 459 U.S. 4, 6 (1982)). Moreover, to properly exhaust state court remedies a petitioner must allege, in state court, how one or more of his or her federal rights have been violated. For example, “[i]f a habeas petitioner wishes to claim that an evidentiary ruling at a state court trial denied him [or her] the due process of law guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment, he [or she] must say so, not only in federal court, but in state court.” See Duncan v. Henry, 513 U.S. 364, 365-66 (1995)(emphasis added).

Nowhere on the Petition does Petitioner allege that he raised his claims in the California Supreme Court. In fact, he specifically indicates that the conviction he seeks to attack is currently pending and that he has not sought review in the California Supreme Court. (See Pet. at 2, 8.)¹

Further, the Court cautions Petitioner that under the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 (AEDPA) a one-year period of limitation shall apply to a petition for a writ of habeas corpus by a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court. The limitation period shall run from the latest of:

(A) the date on which the judgment became final by the conclusion of direct review or the expiration of the time for seeking such review;

¹ Petitioner is cautioned that if he seeks to challenge an ongoing state criminal proceeding, he will be barred by the abstention doctrine of Younger v. Harris, 401 U.S. 37 (1971). Under Younger, federal courts may not interfere with ongoing state criminal proceedings absent extraordinary circumstances. Id. at 45-46; see Middlesex County Ethics Comm. v. Garden State Bar Ass’n, 457 U.S. 423, 431 (1982)

(B) the date on which the impediment to filing an application created by State action in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States is removed, if the applicant was prevented from filing by such State action;

(C) the date on which the constitutional right asserted was initially recognized by the Supreme Court, if the right has been newly recognized by the Supreme Court and made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or

(D) the date on which the factual predicate of the claim or claims presented could have been discovered through the exercise of due diligence.

28 U.S.C.A. § 2244(d)(1)(A)-(D) (West Supp. 2002).

The statute of limitations does not run while a properly filed state habeas corpus petition is pending. 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(2); see Nino v. Galaza, 183 F.3d 1003, 1006 (9th Cir. 1999). But see Artuz v. Bennett, 531 U.S. 4, 8 (2000) (holding that “an application is ‘properly filed’ when its delivery and acceptance [by the appropriate court officer for placement into the record] are in compliance with the applicable laws and rules governing filings.”). However, absent some other basis for tolling, the statute of limitations does run while a federal habeas petition is pending. Duncan v. Walker, 533 U.S. 167, 181-82 (2001).

Rule 4 of the Rules Governing Section 2254 Cases provides for summary dismissal of a habeas petition “[i]f it plainly appears from the face of the petition and any exhibits annexed to it that the petitioner is not entitled to relief in the district court . . .” Rule 4, 28 U.S.C. foll. § 2254. Here, it appears plain from the Petition that Petitioner is not presently entitled to federal habeas relief because he has not alleged exhaustion of state court remedies.

IN CUSTODY REQUIREMENT

Moreover, it appears that Petitioner is not in the custody of the State of California pursuant to the conviction he seeks to challenge. In his petition, Petitioner states that he has been “convicted in a court of this state for the commission of a different crime and he has entered upon a term of imprisonment in a state prison for a period exceeding 90 days.” Further, he states that “[t]here is pending in this Court another indictment, information, complaint, or other criminal proceeding wherein he remains to be sentenced.” (Pet. at 5.)

“Subject matter jurisdiction under the federal habeas corpus statute, 28 U.S.C. § 2254(a), is limited to those persons ‘in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State.’” Brock v. Weston,

31 F.3d 887, 889 (9th Cir. 1994); see also 28 U.S.C. § 2241(c)(3). It is a jurisdictional requirement that, at the time a habeas petition is filed, “the habeas petitioner be ‘in custody’ under the conviction or sentence under attack.” Maleng v. Cook, 490 U.S. 488, 490-91 (1989) (citing 28 U.S.C. §§ 2241(c)(3) & 2254(a)); see Carafas v. LaVallee, 391 U.S. 234, 238 (1968)).

The Supreme Court’s interpretation of the “in custody” language has not required “actual” custody (i.e., that petitioner be physically confined when he challenges his conviction on habeas corpus). For example, the Supreme Court has held that a petitioner who was on parole when he filed his petition was in “constructive” custody sufficient to satisfy the “in custody” requirement. See Jones v. Cunningham, 371 U.S. 236 (1963). Here, Petitioner has not alleged that he is in either actual or constructive state custody for the conviction he seeks to challenge. See Brock, 31 F.3d at 889.

FAILURE TO USE PROPER FORM

Finally, a Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus must be submitted in accordance with the Local Rules of the United States District Court for the Southern District of California. See Rule 2(c), 28 U.S.C. foll. § 2254. In order to comply with the Local Rules, the petition must be submitted upon a court-approved form and in accordance with the instructions approved by the Court. Presently, Petitioner has submitted an application for writ of habeas corpus on a non-approved form.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Court DISMISSES this case without prejudice and with leave to amend. If Petitioner wishes to proceed with this case, he must, no later than May 12, 2008, file a First Amended Petition which cures the pleading deficiencies outlined in this Order. THE CLERK OF COURT IS DIRECTED TO MAIL PETITIONER A BLANK FIRST AMENDED PETITION FORM.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
